Two good friends, Sam and Jason, had a car accident on their way home one snowy night. The next morning, Sam woke up blind. His legs were broken. The doctor, Mr Lee, was standing by his bed, looking at him worriedly. When he saw Sam awake, he asked, "How are you feeling, Sam?" Sam smiled and said, "Not bad, Doctor. Thank you very much for doing the special operation (手术)." Mr Lee was moved by Sam. When he was leaving, Sam said, "Please don't tell Jason about it." "Well ... Well ... OK," Mr Lee replied.

Months later when Jason's wounds healed (愈合), Sam was still very sick. He couldn't see or walk. He could do nothing but stay in his wheelchair all day long. At first, Jason stayed with him for a few days. But days later, Jason thought it boring to spend time with a disabled man like Sam. So he went to see Sam less and less. He made new friends. From then on, he didn't go to visit Sam any more. Sam didn't have any family or friends except Jason. He felt very sad.

Things went from bad to worse. Sam died a year later. When Jason came, Mr Lee gave him a letter from Sam. In the letter Sam said, "Dear Jason, I am disabled. But I want you to be a healthy man. So I gave my eyes to you so that you can enjoy life as a healthy man. Now you have new friends. I'm glad to see that you are as healthy and happy as usual. I'm glad you live a happy life. You are always my best friend ... Sam." When he finished reading the letter, Mr Lee said, "I have promised that I will keep this a secret until Sam is gone. Now you know it."

Jason stood there like a stone. Tears ran down his face.

24. The car accident happened _____.
A. on one snowy morning B. when it snowed one night
C. on their way to school D. when they went to work
25. Sam thanked Mr Lee mainly because Mr Lee _____.
A. saved his friend Jason's life B. was very kind and friendly to him
C. came to see him early in the morning D. did the operation according to his wish
26. From the story, we can conclude that _____.
A. Sam played a joke on Jason
B. Sam always told lies to his friends
C. Sam thought friendship was important
D. Sam regretted doing the operation in the end

When you are sitting in class, have you ever drawn pictures in the margins (页边的空白处) of your notebooks? If so, you are doodling. Many people think of doodling as a distraction (分心) from more important things. But it might be just the opposite. Doodling might help one focus on work.

One study shows that doodling may help you remember things you hear. In 2009 researchers asked two groups of people to listen to a phone message. One group was encouraged to doodle, but the other was not. Neither group knew that it would be asked to remember information from the message. But the group that doodled remembered 29% more.

Other people have suggested other uses for doodling. Jesse Prinz, a professor who studies doodling, says it can help you think creatively. Walking away from a problem to draw might actually help you solve it. When you come back, you'll have a fresh perspective (观点) and figure out an answer more quickly.

An author named Sunni Brown wrote a book on doodling. She argues that doodling is a tool that can help people think. She admits that people see doodling as doing nothing, but she wants to change that. In fact, she runs a business that helps companies improve organization and planning through doodling.

Brown believes doodling is helpful because it includes many ways of learning. You learn in four ways: seeing, hearing, reading or writing, and through movement. The more ways you use, the better you learn. And when you doodle while listening to a lecture, you use all four.

You might think that being good at drawing is important for doodling. But if the point of doodling is to help you think, then it doesn't matter what the picture looks like. Even if you're not an artist, doodling can help you. So next time you need help focusing, pick up a pen and doodle away!

27. Which of the following is true?
- Jesse Prinz thinks doodling can help people remember better.
 - Brown believes doodling involves four ways of learning.
 - One study shows doodling is a distraction from more important things.
 - Many people think that doodling may be good for your learning and thinking.
28. According to the passage, when you have a problem, you might find a way to solve it by _____.
- having a conversation
 - watching a movie
 - drawing lines or shapes
 - wondering in the park
29. The writer probably agrees _____.
- doodling has drawn more attention
 - doodling needs good drawing skill
 - doodling develop one's patience
 - doodling helps one focus attention
30. What's the passage mainly about?
- The problems of doodling.
 - The causes of doodling.
 - The advantages of doodling.
 - The side effects of doodling.

Imagine there is a glass on a table in front of you. It has water in it but it is not full. How do you describe the glass? "Half full or half empty?"

If you say half full, you might be an optimist. If you say half empty, you might be the opposite — a pessimist.

Optimism and pessimism represent your general attitude toward certain situations or to life in general. And your attitude about life may be more important to living than you think.

A new study suggests that your level of optimism may affect your health. People who are optimistic may live longer than those who are pessimistic.

Researchers at Harvard University's School of Public Health in Boston did the study. They compared women with "a general expectation that good things will happen" to women who were less optimistic. They found that the optimists had a much lower risk of getting several deadly diseases, including cancer, heart disease and certain types of infection.

Eric Kim is one of the study leaders. He says there is increasing evidence that strengthening psychological (心理的) resilience may help prevent disease. Kim says that these new findings suggest that people should make efforts to increase their resilience and optimism. He says optimism is connected with healthier behaviors and healthier ways of dealing with difficulty. Optimists tend to take better care of themselves by exercising, eating healthy foods and getting enough sleep.

However, the researchers say that healthy behaviors of optimistic people only partly explain the connection with reduced risk of disease.

For the study, researchers looked at information gathered on 70,000 women in the Nurse's Health Study. This massive study began in 1975. It collects health information on those involved in the study every two years. The Harvard researchers looked at the level of optimism of the women, as well as other factors such as race, diet, physical activity level and overall health. They found the most optimistic women had nearly a 30 percent lower risk of dying from disease.

Kaitlin Hagan, another study leader, says earlier studies show that a person can use simple, low-cost methods to increase optimism. For example, thinking about and writing down the best possible outcomes for areas of their lives, like their careers or relationships.

Leslie Ralph, a clinical psychologist and counselor, has several ideas about how to increase optimism. She says each night you might plan to do two or three simple, enjoyable activities the next day, such as watching the sun rise, visiting a friend, dancing to a favorite song or reading a story with your child. And the counselor adds offering praise or support to someone can also improve your own outlook. A smile and "thank you" from another person may help you feel more optimistic.

31. What do we know from the passage?
- Relations lie among optimism, pessimism and a glass of water.
 - Good expectations increase risk of dying from disease.
 - An optimist is more likely to live healthily.
 - Supporting someone may receive praise of a pessimist.

32. What does the underlined word "resilience" mean in Paragraph 6?
- A. The ability to recover from difficulty or change.
 B. A way of thinking and reacting to things.
 C. Factors that influence one's health.
 D. The ability to experience the sense of touching body.
33. Which of the following would be the best title for the passage?
- A. To Be Optimistic or Pessimistic
 B. To Look on the Bright Side or the Opposite
 C. Increasing Optimism Keeps You More Active
 D. Looking on the Bright Side Might Help You Live Longer

四、阅读短文,根据短文内容回答问题。(共10分,每题2分)

Since 1989, Dave Thomas, who died at age 69, had been one of the most recognizable faces on TV. He appeared in more than 800 commercials (商业广告) for the hamburger chain named for his daughter. "As long as it works," he said in 1991. "I'll continue to do those commercials."

Even though he was successful, Thomas remained troubled by his childhood. "He still won't let anyone see his feet, which are out of shape because he never had proper fitting shoes," Wendy said in 1993. Born to a single mother, he was adopted (收养) as a baby by Rex and Auleva Thomas of Kalamazoo in Michigan. After Auleva died when he was 5, Thomas spent years on the road as Rex traveled around seeking construction work. "He fed me," Thomas said, "and if I got out of line, he'd heat me."

Moving out on his own at 15, Thomas worked, first as a waiter, in many restaurants. But he had something much better in mind. "I thought if I owned a restaurant," he said, "I could eat for free." When he was 24, meeting with Harland Sanders led Thomas to a career as the manager of a Kentucky Fried Chicken restaurant that made him a millionaire in 1968.

In 1969, after breaking with Sanders, Thomas started the first Wendy's Old Fashioned hamburgers, in Columbus, Ohio, which set itself apart by serving made-to-order burgers. With 6,000 restaurants worldwide, the chain now makes $6 billion a year in sales.

Although troubled by his own experience with adoption, Thomas, married since 1954 to Lorraine, 66, and with four grown kids besides Wendy, felt it could offer a future for other children. He started the Dave Thomas Foundation (基金会) for Adoption in 1992.

In 1993, Thomas, who had left school at 15, graduated from Coconut Creek High School in Florida. He even took Lorraine to the graduation dance party. The kids voted him Most Likely to Succeed.

"The Dave you saw on TV was the real Dave," says friend Pat Williams, "He wasn't a great actor or a great speaker. He was just Joe Everybody."

34. When did Dave Thomas begin to do commercials for the hamburger chain?
 35. Did Dave Thomas live a happy life or a hard life when he was young?
 36. Who led Dave Thomas to success?
 37. Where did Thomas start the first Wendy's Old Fashioned hamburgers?
 38. Why did he start the Dave Thomas Foundation for Adoption in 1992?

题目①

Dear Peter,

I'm glad to receive your email. We need to hand in the poster by next Monday. Now, I'd like to share some ideas on how I will design my poster.

The main part is about some knowledge on how to prevent COVID-19. For example, we should wear masks when we must go out. We should wash our hands when we come back. We should open the windows for about half an hour every day.

To make my poster more attractive, I plan to draw some pictures to make others pay attention. Hope my ideas will be helpful.

If there is anything more that I can help with, please let me know.

Yours,

Li Hua

题目②

Self-discipline plays an important role in our life. To be self-disciplined, I started from doing simple things. For example, I tried to form the habits of getting up early and read English and Chinese. I made a plan to answer at least 10 questions every day.

Though it was hard for me at the beginning, I pushed myself forward. About two weeks later, I got into the habit.

By doing so, I have made much progress. I have caught the students who were better than me .I have known a lot of things that I didn't know before.
